

OLD ABE EAGLE.

OLD ABE EAGLE, VOL. I, NO. 2.
NEW MEXICO INTERPRETER, VOL. VI, NO. II.

WHITE OAKS, LINCOLN CO., NEW MEXICO, FRIDAY, NOV. 27, 1891.

WHOLE No. 335.

Goodman,
Zeigler & Co.
WHITE BLOCK.

WHITE OAKS, N. M.

We are now offering a full line of the choicest goods ever brought to this market and invite our host of friends to come and inspect our

DYED GOODS,

SILKS,

LINGERIE,

BOOTS,

SHOES,

CLOTHING,

HATS and

CAPS.

In merchandise we dare competition and we know that for style, prices and fit we can suit everybody.

MINES AND MINING.

Lack of time prevents us from telling the whole truth in this issue concerning the business interests, positions of the White Oaks and other Lincoln co. so its mining and coal districts.

Postage due, we know, large paying quantities within a radius of three miles from the center of White Oaks, coal beds, silver, limestone, sandstone, gypsum, marble, iron, plumb and gold.
There are coal gas wells and oil on an infinity of easy grade down to White Oaks.
In a future issue we shall give in detail where and in what parts of these valuable products adding further to the White Oaks report.
These are all located in government or private lands and titles are unexceptable of being clear and straight. We shall also speak specially of the various silver, lead, zinc, copper, gypsum, lime etc. in the county, including the granite forests of Timber, the great granite and agricultural country within a radius of three miles of Lincoln County seat.

Look out for us as we have more news on the last part of our report due to our time calls. Come to White Oaks and see the old time mining.

SOUTH HOMESTEAD OR HOMESTEAD.

In the year 1870 one John C. Lusk brought a number of cattle to the territory with the intent of getting other animals, some present and others not, to help him out. He settled near the town of White Oaks, Lincoln County, N. M., at the foot of what is now called Lusk's Mountain.
While there he raised more than one hundred cattle and became known as the founder of the Lusk Ranch.
He died in 1880, leaving his cattle to his son, John C. Lusk, who continued the business and at one time had over 1,000 head of cattle.

John C. Lusk, the son, is now commanding Company B during the absence of Capt. Ketcham.

Four recruits for Company B and a musician for the band arrived on Tuesday's stage from Columbus yesterday.

It is reported that John C. Lusk lives at Lusk's Ranch and the other soldiers are of whom he is the captain and Lieutenant. They are all from the same company, which is the same as the one he has in command.
The band is composed of men from the same company, and is under the command of Capt. Ketcham.

The trial of Lieut. Farrow, of Barnard's Cavalry, was concluded yesterday afternoon at the U. S. Ass't Court of Appeals, New York, after a hearing of two hours. The court decided that the sentence of 10 years imprisonment was illegal, and that it should be reduced to 5 years.

Wilson, the attorney for the defendant, argued that the sentence was illegal because it was imposed before the trial had been completed.

This case is the most celebrated case of the United States Cavalry since 1861, almost continuously, and the heat of the recent trials delayed the trial of the last case for nearly two years.

July 1st, 1861, Lieut. Farrow was captured by the rebels at the Battle of Bull Run, Virginia.

He was held in confinement for several months, and was then sent to the prison at Libby.

He was released in 1862, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1863, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1864, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1865, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1866, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1867, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1868, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1869, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1870, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1871, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1872, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1873, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1874, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1875, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1876, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1877, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1878, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1879, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1880, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1881, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1882, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1883, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1884, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1885, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1886, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1887, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1888, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1889, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1890, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1891, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1892, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1893, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1894, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1895, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1896, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1897, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1898, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1899, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1900, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1901, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1902, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1903, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1904, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1905, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1906, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1907, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1908, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1909, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1910, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1911, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1912, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1913, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1914, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1915, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1916, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1917, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1918, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1919, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1920, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1921, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1922, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1923, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1924, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1925, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1926, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1927, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1928, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1929, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1930, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1931, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1932, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1933, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1934, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1935, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1936, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1937, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1938, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1939, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1940, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1941, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1942, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1943, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1944, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1945, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1946, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1947, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1948, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1949, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1950, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1951, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1952, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1953, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1954, and
then became a member of the
Confederate Cavalry.

He was captured again in 1955, and
sent to the prison at Libby, Virginia.

He was released in 1956, and then became a member